Smashing interior

Bruno Billio exhibition at Smash
|By Andrew Sardone

We're used to seeing Gladstone artist-in-residence Bruno Billio's work exhibited in the teensy suite of rooms he calls home at the hotel so checking out his work at massive Junction salvage shop Smash is a spacious treat.

Billio used industrial-sized spools of thread to create a window web for the Interior Design Show's annual display contest.

Inside, suitcase lights, stacks of cigar boxes and yellow rhino figurines under glass are exhibited next to pieces from Magic Pony's Platonic Material Plane exhibit by Noel Middleton.

See more Interior Design reviews here and here. And also check out this weekend's other design showcases Come Up To My Room (here and here) and Radiant Dark (here and here).
